SEPTEMBER 30, 2020

Dear Friends,

Thank you for your wonderful emails and comments in response to last week's newsletter.

Stay tuned as we work on your ideas! In the meantime ... it's football season! Even with no fans and fake crowd noise, we are still watching football!

As always, we're watching our team, and we're probably watching yours too, given that we tune in for Saturday, Thursday night, and Sunday afternoon and night games. I'm not exaggerating! While we're not hosting big tailgates — actually, we're not hosting any tailgates — and while we're not enjoying big football parties at home, we might still watch the game with a few friends. Many of you have outdoor porches with big screen TV's, and this seems like a great COVID safe space for a small group.

If so, treat them and yourselves to the Vidalia and Cheddar Spread. Easy and so good you could eat with a spoon. You can also enjoy it on a sandwich as one of my editors once did. She said it was fantastic! Can you just imagine this spread with a late-season tomato? YUM!

From our team and home to yours,

Dee Dee

“We’re at the beach with two other families. Last night I made the vidalia-cheddar dip, and everyone was ga-ga over it. But the real revelation came just now, when I spread the leftovers (no idea how there were leftovers) on bread and made a grilled cheese with it. Seriously, the best grilled cheese of all time.”
